TOKYO (AP)—Indonesian Defense Minister Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution has crushed an uprising against President Sukarno and both he and Sukarno are safe and well, Radio Jakarta reported Friday night.

The broadcast announcement came a few hours after a revolutionary council led by Lt. Col. Untung, a battalion commander in Sukarno's bodyguard, announced it had seized power and proclaimed itself "the source of all authority."

The Malaysian government radio in Kuala Lumpur, which has been monitoring Jakarta broadcasts, said army units under Gen. Suharto, loyal to Sukarno and Nasution, were instrumental in smashing Untung's power move.

The Jakarta Radio said "those responsible for the coup have been arrested." Malaysian officials reported.

Untung's revolutionary council, during its bid for supremacy, had declared that Sukarno, 64, was "under protection" of the council. This led to speculation that the strongman had been removed.

There was no immediate report of Sukarno's whereabouts. Untung, in a broadcast before the government's countermove, had said he took the action because a number of generals and the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency had planned an anti-Sukarno coup.

Radio Jakarta at that time appeared to have been under his control.

An earlier broadcast by Radio Jakarta announced formation of a new, 45-member cabinet laced with perhaps a dozen Communists, but D.N. Aidit, leader of Indonesia's 3 million-member Communist party, was not on the list.

Sukarno 'Safe And Well'

The revolutionary council said it had arrested a number of Observers expected Communist influence to increase still more in Indonesia in the wake of the upheaval. For years the country's army leaders had acted as a check on the Communists, but recently Sukarno and his government have been increasingly responsive to demands of Indonesia's 3-million-member Communist party.

Indonesia's government radio said those arrested were members of a subversive "council of generals" sponsored by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency. It did not give their number nor their identities.

The broadcast said the arrests were made Thursday in a "30th of September operation."

In Washington, the State Department said that preliminary dispatches from the U.S. Embassy in Jakarta showed that something irregular was happening but that the shape of events was not clear.

U.S. officials were apprehensive. The Indonesian Communists have repeatedly demanded that the government break relations with the United States, but Sukarno had not taken this step despite bitter opposition to U.S. policy in Asia.

The Japanese ambassador in Jakarta reported to Tokyo that the Indonesian army had discovered an attempted coup d'etat and arrested about 20 officers, the Japanese Foreign Office said.

Radio Jakarta said the council of generals "had planned to conduct a power exhibition on Armed Forces Day, Oct. 5 this year, by sending to Jakarta troops from East, Central and West Java."

"It was to prevent such a counterrevolutionary coup that Lt. Col. Untung took the initiative to launch the 30th of September operation which has proved successful," the broadcast said.

It said the council of generals was "a subversive body sponsored by the CIA" which "has been very active lately, especially after President Sukarno was seriously ill in the first week of August this year."

"Their hope that President Sukarno would die of his illness did not materialize."

Although Sukarno has been reported suffering from a serious kidney ailment for several years, this was the first word that he was ill in August.

Vietnamese Kill 68 Reds In Mekong

100 Others Dead Or Wounded In Big Delta Battle

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A U.S. military spokesman today reported one of the biggest battles in the Mekong Delta in months, with 68 Viet Cong bodies counted and another 100 guerrillas believed killed or wounded.

The spokesman said four government battalions — more than 1,500 troops — fought a day-long battle Thursday with an estimated 1,000 Viet Cong about 20 miles west of My Tho.

U.S. Army advisers were with the government troops. U.S. casualties were described as very light.

The South Vietnamese suffered light casualties in the fighting, the spokesman said, but took moderate losses when the Viet Cong ambushed a river boat bringing reinforcements.

In the air war, B52 bombers from Guam staged their 36th raid of the war. Their target was a suspected Viet Cong position in Quang Ngai Province, 320 miles northeast of Saigon.

Four Americans were killed in the crash of a U.S. Army helicopter from the 1st Cavalry Division at An Khe. Enemy action was not a factor. Three other Americans were killed in North Viet Nam when the Communists shot down two planes on a bombing mission 55 miles south of Hanoi.

U.S. military authorities said one of the planes, an F105 Thunderchief, was apparently shot down by a surface-to-air missile. Three other planes have been reported downed by missiles in North Viet Nam this year.

The air frame project accounts for about $1.5 billion of the cost, the engines about $500 million.

The giant plane will weigh almost 350 tons, twice the gross tonnage of the largest U.S. military cargo plane now in service, the Douglas C133 propjet transport.

McNamara said the C5A will carry three times as much cargo as the Lockheed C141 jet freighter, which he called the most modern and efficient transport in the world today.

Cabinet Member Due For Democrat Dinner

LISBON — Plans for a visit by a member of President Lyndon Johnson's cabinet to a Democratic dinner later this month will be outlined by Don R. Gosney, Columbiana County party chairman, at a meeting of the Democratic Central and Executive Committees Monday night.

Gosney said he expects to have final details for the county dinner event completed by the meeting Monday night at 8 at the party headquarters here.

Party candidates for city and village offices in the Nov. 2 general election are invited to the session, Gosney said.

New Crisis In Asia

U.S. Officials Watch Indonesian Situation Closely

WASHINGTON (AP)—Reports of a political upheaval in Indonesia today signal an incipient new crisis in crisis-ridden Southeast Asia.

Apprehensive U.S. officials were watching the situation closely. They studied the Jakarta announcement and official reports from the U.S. Embassy in Jakarta in an effort to determine what effect the upheaval might have on President Sukarno's leadership and on Indonesia's political alliances.

For several years the populous island nation has been swinging closer and closer to the Red Chinese orbit, and it appeared that the Communist issue might be a vital element in the present emergency.

Robert J. McCloskey, State Department press officer, said early today that preliminary dispatches from the embassy showed that something irregular was happening in Jakarta but the shape of events was not clear.

"We'll be watching the situation closely," McCloskey said. "But we can't define it now and can't comment on it."

Southeast Asia has been the scene of mounting tension. The centerpiece of concern, of course, is the war in Viet Nam. And, at the moment, U.S. officials are also preoccupied with the shaky cease-fire between India and Pakistan.

Relations between the United States and Indonesia were reduced almost to the vanishing point some time ago.

Increasing tensions between the two countries have been marked by Indonesian seizure of control of various American-owned properties, violent and destructive demonstrating against U.S. government offices such as libraries and information centers and sharp policy differences over Indonesia's conflict with British-backed Malaysia.

In spite of the tensions, however, the United States has refrained from breaking relations with the Sukarno government, although the once-heavy economic aid to Indonesia has long since been ended.

U.S. concern over Indonesia's future has two primary bases. The island chain which the republic occupies is one of the richest areas in the world in natural resources, with vast supplies of oil, tin and other minerals.

Also the archipelago holds highly important strategic positions along the air and water route between the Indian and Pacific oceans.

President's Signing Due Reform Bill

To OK Immigration Measure Sunday At Statue Of Liberty

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has chosen the Statue of Liberty for signing into law the historic immigration reform bill.

He'll fly to New York Sunday and sign the measure at the base of the statue, a beacon to millions of immigrants who flocked to America's shores.

The President will remain in New York overnight to meet with Pope Paul VI Monday.

The House approved the immigration bill Thursday by a vote of 320 to 69. The Senate then sent it to the President by voice vote.

Sponsors of the measure, which had the strong backing of the President and of his predecessor, John F. Kennedy, say it will increase immigration to the United States to 355,000 a year, about 60,000 more than at present.

The measure will repeal in three years the national-origins formula under which Eastern Hemisphere nations received immigration quotas in proportion to their share of the U.S. population in 1920.

The effect was to encourage immigration from northern Europe and discourage that from southern and eastern Europe. Opponents of the quota system called that formula discriminatory.

The bill sets an annual ceiling of 170,000 on Eastern Hemisphere immigration and 120,000 on Western Hemisphere. The Western Hemisphere quota, effective July 1, 1963, is the first of its kind.

Husbands, wives, minor children and parents of U.S. citizens will be admitted outside the quotas.

But no more than 20,000 may be admitted each year from any country outside the Western Hemisphere.

2 Sentenced In Counterfeit Money Case

William A. Ryan, 30, of Toronto was one of two men sentenced Thursday to four years in federal prison on charges of possessing counterfeit money.

Also sentenced was Robert B. Becker, 39, of North Canton.

Secret Service agents arrested the pair more than a year ago, finding $54,000 in counterfeit money in their hotel room.

A U.S. attorney said the two had purchased the money from John J. Samarin, 44, of Cleveland, who previously was sentenced to five years in prison.

Ryan and Becker were sentenced by U.S. District Court Judge James C. Connell at Cleveland.

'Super-Ready' Force

Senator 'Dodges' McNamara Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Key senator who helped block Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's plan to merge the Army Reserve into the National Guard today withheld approval of a new McNamara plan to fashion a super-ready 145,000-man force, chiefly of National Guardsmen.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services preparedness subcommittee, said in an interview: "I haven't seen the plan, and I couldn't comment on it."

This came as something of a surprise since McNamara had told a news conference Thursday: "We have talked to . . . leaders of the Senate in the Armed Services and Appropriations Committees, and they have received the plan favorably."

After Acquittal In Rights Slaying

Integration Leaders Cry For 'Anti-Lynch' Laws

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (AP) — The acquittal of a part-time deputy sheriff in the slaying of a young civil rights worker brought cries from integration leaders for federal "anti-lynch" legislation, condemnation from church leaders and criticism from Alabama's attorney general.

After two hours of deliberation Thursday, a jury of 12 white men acquitted Thomas L. Coleman of a manslaughter charge in the death of Jonathan M. Daniels. Coleman pleaded self defense.

Civil rights leaders and persons close to the slain man condemned the trial. The phrase "travesty of justice" occurred in statements by New Hampshire Gov. John W. King and the Rev. John B. Coburn, dean of the Episcopal theological school attended by Daniels.

Three leading integration spokesmen called for federal legislation.

"It is obviously clear that federal anti-lynch legislation must be passed to prevent further violence and intimidation upon innocent victims of white segregationists," said Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, called for federal legislation making it a crime punishable by life imprisonment to kill "a person working to secure his own or assisting to secure another's civil rights." He called the Hayneville trial a "mockery of law which passes for justice in the State of Alabama."

Coleman used a 12-gauge shotgun to shoot and kill Daniels at a country store last August. The defense claimed Coleman fired in self defense because Daniels, who had come to Alabama to work with the civil rights movement, was armed with a knife.

U.S. To Build Airplane Able To Carry 700

Jet Transport To Cost $2 Billion: World's Largest

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has set out to build the world's largest airplane — the C5A, capable of carrying up to 700 passengers.

The task of developing and producing airplane bodies, wings, tails and other parts larger than ever before flown was assigned Thursday to the Lockheed Aircraft Corp.'s Georgia Division at Marietta, Ga.

The 40,000-pound-thrust jet engines — four to a plane — will be produced by the General Electric Co. of Cincinnati.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara estimated it will cost about $2 billion to develop the plane, produce the initial Air Force order of 58 and place the transport in operation by 1969.

The air frame project accounts for about $1.5 billion of the cost, the engines about $500 million.

The giant plane will weigh almost 350 tons, twice the gross tonnage of the largest U.S. military cargo plane now in service, the Douglas C133 propjet transport.

McNamara said the C5A will carry three times as much cargo as the Lockheed C141 jet freighter, which he called the most modern and efficient transport in the world today.

Wouldn't Do It In 1964

Javits Thinks GOP Set To Reject Birch Society

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits believes his party is ready to do what it wouldn't do in 1964 — formally repudiate the John Birch Society.

Birch Society influence in the party has been clear since the last GOP National Convention drowned in boos an effort to repudiate the society, Javits said in an interview.

"From what I see," he said, "a similar resolution would succeed today."

But Barry Goldwater, whose forces dominated the national convention in San Francisco 14 months ago, said he would like to have the names of anybody — in any organization — who has infiltrated the GOP.

"When any member of the Republican party doesn't act in the best interests of the party and the United States," the 1964 GOP presidential nominee said in Phoenix, "he probably would find himself more at home in the Democratic party."

And, in an address Thursday night to the Phoenix Press Club, he said he would agree that the society as a whole should be kept out of the Republican party.

But as for individuals, he said, "unless somebody can point a finger at something they've done contrary to Republican policy, I don't see why anything should be done about them."

Goldwater steadfastly refused during his losing campaign against President Johnson to disavow Birch Society support.

He said he disagreed with the views of society founder Robert Welch, but was not going to read anybody out of the GOP.

Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., touched off the latest GOP attack by charging the Birch Society is out to infiltrate the GOP.

The society's idea "of taking over a party is to beat the Republican incumbent," Morton said.

Man Suffers Bad Burns In Gasoline Fire

A 57-year-old Liverpool Township employee was in "fairly good" condition today at City Hospital with burns of the left hand and arm suffered early Thursday afternoon when gasoline ignited while he was cleaning a road stripping machine at the township garage in LaCroft.

Robert J. Beaver of Dixonville, road supervisor for the township, managed to quell the flames with water from a hose, but they caused some $800 damage to the concrete block structure along 9th Ave.

Beaver was cleaning the machine when the gasoline apparently ignited, possibly from a nearby water heater, according to reports. Liverpool West firemen were to confer today with the township trustees concerning the fire and damage.

Storage Cabin Hit By Flames At Motel

The interior of a motel cabin and items stored inside were heavily damaged in a fire at the King's Court motel along Route 30 in the Substation area early this morning.

A loss of $2,000 was estimated in the blaze, which broke out about 5, apparently caused by an electric neon sign circuit.

Glenmoor firemen were summoned to quell the flames, the smoke from which was first spotted by a nearby resident, Mrs. Ida Mae Simpson.

The cabin had not been used for sometime to house guests, according to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Karger, motel operators, but served as a storage unit for mattresses, box springs and other equipment.

The blaze may have been ignited from an overheated transformer in the neon outline tube around the cabin or from arcing in the circuit.

2-Way Crash Hurts Woman

A 62-year-old Wellsville woman was admitted to Osteopathic Hospital for X-rays after her auto was hit from behind in a West End mishap Thursday at 10:07 p. m., police reported.

She is Mrs. Marian Drummond of 964 Main St., driver of a 1964 sedan involved in the collision at W. 8th and Lisbon Sts. with a 1962 sedan operated by Carl S. Davis, 39, of 531 Broadway, Wellsville, officers said.

Mrs. Drummond was taken to the hospital in a cruiser, then admitted for X-rays, officers said. She said she was driving west in the right-hand lane on W. 8th St., halted when the traffic light turned to amber and her car was hit from the rear. Davis told officers he was driving in the left-hand lane when Mrs. Drummond pulled from the right-hand lane in front of his car, then stopped suddenly.

A collision Thursday at 3:28 p. m. on W. 6th St. near Jefferson St. involved a 1955 four-door sedan driven by Vera E. Brereton, 45, of 1177 Lisbon St., and a parked 1957 auto owned by Victor R. Allison of 1027 Huston Ave., officers said.

The woman said she was turning west off Jefferson St., meanwhile watching a school bus, when the rear of her car hit the Allison auto.

Wilbur Hazelet of 1825 Ohio Ave. told officers the left side of his parked 1961 convertible was damaged sometime between 6:45 a. m. and 4:45 p. m. when struck by a hit-skip vehicle on W. 5th St. near Jefferson St.

Biology Teacher, Cook To Receive Board Attention

Appointment of a second biology teacher for the high school and an additional cook for the Westgate School cafeteria will be considered by the Board of Education Monday night at 7:30 at its meeting in the high school.

The biology appointment will complete the school staff. East Liverpool is one of the few high schools in Ohio to offer two years of biology.

The additional cook is required because the cafeteria now is averaging more than 1,000 meals a day, Supt. Paul H. Blair said.

The board also will consider the use of school facilities by outside organizations. Following the formal meeting, it will confer with Robert F. Beatty, architect, on plans for the new senior high school and North Side elementary building.

The board also has been advised that the County Budget Commission will conduct a hearing Wednesday at 9 a. m. at the Courthouse on the 1966 budget.

The board approved a budget of $2,653,315 for next year at the July 19 meeting subject to final approval of the commission, which will determine the amount of money the board can anticipate next year from all sources. The budget includes $2,096,363 for general operating expenses.

LISBON — A Salem man Wednesday afternoon was sentenced to one to 15 years in the Ohio State Penitentiary at Columbus on a charge of burglary Aug. 20.

The defendant, Vance Charles Moore, 31, of 647 W. Wilson St., appearing before Judge Joel H. Sharp, withdrew his plea of not guilty made at arraignment Monday and entered a plea of guilty, requesting immediate sentencing.

Moore was accused of the April 20 break-in at the Sons of Italy Lodge in Leetonia. Two other charges against him were not pressed on a motion by Prosecuting Atty. J. Warren Bettis. They were auto theft and operation of a motor vehicle without the owner's consent, both in connection with the alleged burglary.

'Definite Progress' Reported For Actress

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Dorothy Malone was "definitely making progress," but was "still in critical condition," Cedars of Lebanon Hospital spokesmen reported today.

Miss Malone, 40, underwent surgery to remove blood clots from her lungs last week.

Thursday, spokesmen said, "she said she was very tired from the ordeal."

"She is still taking massive doses of antibiotics, but she's speaking in her normal voice. She asked about her children and her family," they said.

Miss Malone has two daughters, Mimi, 5, and Diane, 3, by her former husband, actor Jacques Bergerac.

Warning Due 400 For Late Tax Payment

Tax Commissioner D. G. Wilkinson said today his office will begin mailing warnings early next week to about 400 persons who failed to make third-quarter payments on their city income tax bills before the deadline Thursday.

Approximately 4,000 persons whose income is not subject to withholding at the source are required to file individual reports with the tax office. As usual, about 10 per cent failed to comply with the ordinance, Wilkinson said.

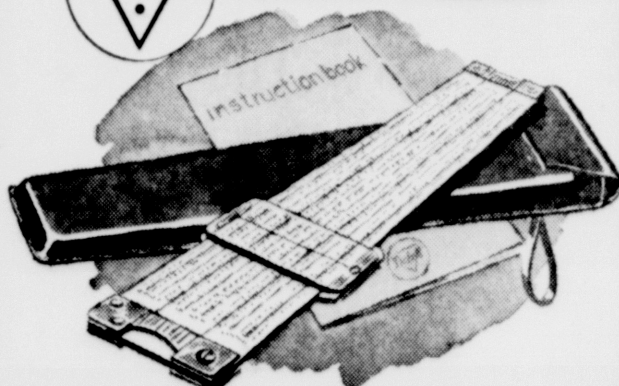

The payments cover the quarter from July through September. They are due on the last day of the quarter.

The requirement for quarterly payments does not affect persons whose entire income is subject to withholding at the source, Wilkinson emphasized. In these cases, employers deduct the tax and turn it over to the city in regular installments. No reports or returns are required from the employees.

Persons whose entire income is not subject to withholding must file individual annual returns, estimating their earnings for the year. The amount due then is paid in four quarterly installments. At the close of the year, when a final return is filed, the individual pays the balance due or collects from the city for any overpayment.

Meanwhile, Wilkinson said he will file a detailed report with Council Monday night, listing the tax office's collections through the third quarter. He files the reports at the end of each three-month period, showing revenue from withholding, from individuals and from profits of business and professional men or corporations.

ial furnished by the Defense Department.

Two House members who played a major part in preventing the earlier merger proposal appeared to fall in line with the new plan.

Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., and Rep. William G. Bray, R-Ind., joined in saying: "This plan in no way involved the merger as contemplated by the Department of Defense last December."

Hebert and Bray agreed with McNamara's statement that the new move is within the Pentagon's statutory authority and "under the law does not require further congressional action."

McNamara, too, called it a different plan from the one he had suggested last winter.

The chief difference is that it omits any attempt to merge Guard and Reserve units into a single high - priority organization totaling about 575,000 men, all in the Guard.

However, there were important similarities, and McNamara evidently achieves under the new plan his basic objective of a highly equipped, fully manned organization which has small place for Army Reserve units. The 145,000-man force will be made up of 982 units.

The overwhelming bulk of the men are National Guardsmen—130,000 guardsmen in 831 units. The Reserve gets only 15,000 men of this force in 160 units.

What's more, the three divisions and six brigades which form the core of the "select force" are all in the National Guard.

One brigade from Ohio's 37th division will become a part of one of the high-priority divisions, the 28th infantry, now wholly in Pennsylvania.

Among the Reserve units to be disbanded is the 83d infantry of Ohio and West Virginia.

Except for keeping some Reserve units going, the plan follows key features of McNamara's effort to merge all Army Reserve units in the National Guard or disband them.

Dahlia Unit Sets Judging School

The East Liverpool Dahlia Society will hold a judging school at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leo C. Lawrence, 777 Midway Lane, at 2 p. m. Sunday.

Such schools are held periodically throughout the United States and Canada under auspices of the American Dahlia Society and are designed to instill knowledge in classification and study of dahlias.

Apprentice judges and accredited judges have been invited to attend the meeting.

The East Liverpool society's board of directors will meet following the school. Jack Eccleston will preside at the judges' school and Frank M. Richmond will preside at the directors' meeting.

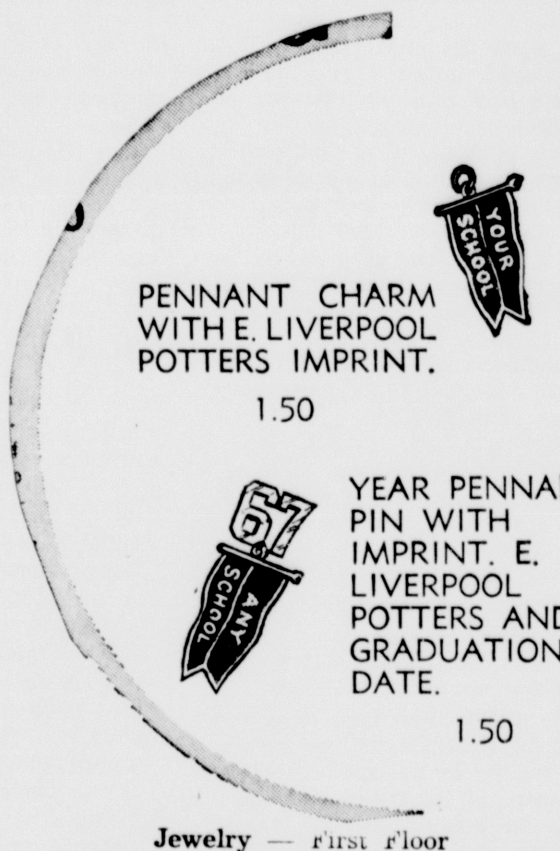

The next regular meeting will be Oct. 11 at the Potters Savings and Loan Annex.

Said Castro To The Flies

A few years ago in the Chinese People's Republic, critics of the government were invited to say what was on their minds.

Hundreds of thousands of Chinese who had things on their mind did speak up, and when it was all over their names and remarks had been recorded officially.

It was a simple thing after that for the government to round them out and dispose of them according to the severity of their remarks. In most cases, judged by the estimates of the number of Chinese who disappeared without trace, the critics were killed.

The technique was callous, but it worked.

It saved the government the trouble of seeking out the people who were in a mood to make trouble for it. They literally turned themselves in by confessing in public what had been bothering them about the official regime.

Now comes Fidel Castro with an idea for rounding up dissident Cubans.

All who wish to leave Cuba to join relatives in the United States have been invited to register for passage to this country as guests of the Cuban government.

This is the greatest idea for trapping the unwary since German executioners handed Jewish children a towel and a cake of soap on their way into the gas chambers. Only a bare residue of Cubans are unwary, but of these it may be expected some will walk into Castro's parlor.

Some of these may even be whisked away to the United States, where they will be safely out of his beard and on the relief rolls of the despised American imperialists. Others may be disposed of closer at home.

Red-Faced Nimrods

There is an instinctive satisfaction for a man who returns with his quarry, be a squirrel or rabbit from the fields of Ohio or a lion from the plains of Africa.

Here is the hunter proving his prowess, showing his skill, providing for his family.

But we wonder how does the woodsman feel who bangs away only to discover he has slain a cow — as happened near Salineville last week — or inadvertently felled a cat or wandering dog.

The gunfire on our hills and in our valleys is at times less than expert and too often without intelligent thought.

A good hunter doesn't just boast about his ability, he earns that ability through experience and the realization that his weapon can bring death to the hunted and unhunted alike.

The Sovereignty Of Panama

It was not to have been expected that unanimous approval would greet a proposed new treaty with the Republic of Panama making it a partner in the Panama Canal.

There never has been unanimous approval of anything that concerned Panama, the canal, or Central America in general. But in recent years there has been a change of the prevailing attitude.

Not long ago, everything pertaining to lottery republics in Central America and Latin America in general was on a take-it-or-leave-it basis. The United States stated the terms — and that was it.

That was how the Panama Canal was built. That was how the Republic of Panama came into existence. That was what generated the bitterness that caused the United States to be dubbed "Colossus of the North" and alternately cajoled and despised by smaller nations in the New World.

The Panama riots of 1964 hastened a moment of truth. Were the riots inspired by Communists? If so, the inspiration was augmented needlessly by the fact the 1903 treaty between the United States and Panama treated the latter as a dependent, not as an equal.

When In Doubt Build A Wall

It was to have been expected that the Chinese would think of building a wall in connection with their boundary dispute. Only China can claim the Great Wall, a greatest building project ever undertaken.

Nations trying to keep the China-India boundary dispute from blazing into a war may have to think of a modern "great wall" that presumably would be built in a modern way—perhaps an electronic barrier.

Presumably the modern way to settle a boundary dispute would be an aerial survey at the beginning, followed by ground survey teams under neutral auspices.

But the outside world may wonder whether even all that would make any difference in this kind of a dispute. It is not the boundary, itself, that is in dispute. It is, rather, whether one side or the other is in position to challenge the other side's boundary claim successfully. This is a test of strength.

When It's Fall

It's funny about fall.

The waning days of summer are peeled off the calendar one by one, and no one thinks about what's happening because Labor Day was away back there somewhere and everything that comes afterward is frosting on summer's cake.

Then someone says it's the autumn equinox the day after tomorrow, but even that doesn't mean much, either, because everything still seems the same it was two weeks ago, or two months ago.

And then suddenly it happens . . . The thing that was to have been postponed indefinitely happens overnight.

Nature grows old.

Its wrinkles show.

There are streaks of gray in its hair.

Gone is the exuberance of youth.

Gone is the illusion that the inevitable will be postponed indefinitely. The inevitable is here.

The leaves that were going to fall to the ground sometime are falling.

The temperature that was going to turn wintry sooner or later has turned wintry.

Song birds have taken their cue from college students and flown to happier surroundings.

Darkness is settling. Half of each day is sunless and before it has run its course darkness will have claimed two-thirds of each day.

Flowers still blooming look like 30-year-old-plus blondes at 9 a.m.

All early bloomers have called it a season.

The croquet set has been put away, and the tennis rackets stored in a safe place.

Weeds have started to rest up for an early start next spring.

The last rose of summer's petals are falling.

Corn fields are tattered and sere.

Migrant starlings cloud the evening sky as they settle down for a night's rest.

Everything in nature is heaving a sigh of relief because it's all over for another year — everything but man, himself, who is sighing because it really is all over and he is part of it.

There is nothing to look forward to but the last leaf and the first snowfall, the last warm day and the first frigid one, the last walk on springy turf, the first walk on frozen ground.

It happens suddenly, but the truth is it has been happening a long time. What's sudden is realization.

Those wrinkles, that gray hair, the stooped shoulders, the sadness in the eyes, the loss of bounce, the lack of pounce. It's fall.

The familiar ferris wheel, found at fairs and amusement parks, was named for its original constructor, George W. Ferris (1859-96). His original model was erected at the Midway in Chicago in 1893 and consisted of a wheel 250 feet in diameter, carrying 36 cars each seating 40 people, or a total of 1,440 passengers in all.

Very Light Fingered!

New Light On The Missile Gap

By David Wise

After eight years, and so quietly it went almost unnoticed in the rush of world events, former President Eisenhower has made public the findings of a top-secret report that has had an incalculable effect on the nation's history.

In a widely syndicated article, based on the final volume of his memoirs, "The White House Years: Waging Peace," the former chief executive summarized the 1957 Gaither Report on the strategic balance of power between the U.S. and the Soviet Union.

The report laid the foundation for the great "missile gap" controversy of the late 1950s; the controversy in turn probably helped to elect John F. Kennedy over Richard M. Nixon in 1960 and influenced the nation's defense posture and spending under two administrations.

The publication of the findings of the once highly classified Gaither Report focused attention anew on Washington memoir-writing, even though it failed to stir the same fuss as "inside" books by Theodore C. Sorensen and Arthur Schlesinger, former assistants to President Kennedy.

NEVERTHELESS, it illustrated that Eisenhower, like President Truman before him, has felt free to summarize, and in some cases quote, from previously unavailable reports, cables, and documents that might otherwise remain hidden in government archives for years.

The Gaither Report was compiled by a committee of experts named by Eisenhower in 1957 to evaluate the balance of military power between the U.S. and the Soviet Union. The chairman was H. Rowan Gaither, former president of the Ford Foundation.

According to Eisenhower, the report found that the Soviet growth rate was much faster than this country's. Moscow was spending about as much as the U.S. on military forces and heavy industry. The Russians had the capacity to produce 1,500 nuclear weapons and 4,500 jet bombers, 250-300 long-range submarines, and an extensive air defense system, it was already manufacturing 700 - mile ICBM's and by late 1959 it could launch an attack against the U.S. with 100 ICBM's carrying megaton nuclear warheads. If this happened, both the civilian population and the planes of the Strategic Air Command would be vulnerable.

The report was suppressed. In the post-Sputnik era, into which the world had just moved, the U.S. public was frightened by accounts of Soviet missile and satellite prowess. Democratic opponents of President Eisenhower were having a field day, and their mouths watered for a look at the Gaither Report.

"Sen. Lyndon Johnson," Eisenhower dryly reports in his book, "asked for a version with classified information deleted."

ON NOV. 23, 1957, Tom Lambert of the New York Herald Tribune reported the substance of parts of the Gaither Report, and the Washington Post later devoted considerable space to its version. Not until last week and the Eisenhower article, however, was there any official release of the document's findings.

In the late 1950s, the controversy mounted over the relative strengths of the U.S. and the Russians. Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy, a soap-industry executive turned Cabinet member, added fuel to the fire in 1959 in a series of public statements and congressional testimony that led many to believe that the Russians might have a 3-1 missile superiority over the U.S.

Two arguments were used by the Republican administration to counter the "missile gap" talk by the Democrats. First, it was said, the Russians had gotten a much earlier start in building missiles and rockets. Second, the U.S. was relying on over-all striking power, including bombers, not on missiles alone. Eisenhower said in July of 1959 that Russia had been working on ICBM's since 1945 and the U.S. and its scientists were "catching up as fast as they can."

During the 1960 presidential campaign, Sen. John F. Kennedy hammered away at the "missile gap" theme. On Sept. 14, 1960, for example, in a speech in New York, he called for "crash programs . . . which eventually will close the missile gap."

Less than three weeks after President Kennedy took office, his Defense Secretary, Robert S. McNamara, fresh from making cars in Michigan, stumbled on the tiger traps of the Washington news jungle. He held a

"background" press conference in his plushly carpeted office, and it led to news stories saying that U.S. defense studies showed there was no "missile gap" any more.

THE WHITE HOUSE took pains to deny the denial of the missile gap, and Kennedy said no conclusions had been reached "as to whether there is a missile gap or not." But the damage had been done, and by late 1961 U.S. experts were conceding that there was no gap, and that the predicted gap had not developed.

All of this seemed to confirm Eisenhower's last State of the Union message in January 1961, when he declared: "The 'bomber gap' of several years ago was always a fiction, and the 'missile gap' shows every sign of being the same."

By late 1961, U.S. analysts were saying the Russians had no more than 50 ICBM's, while the U.S. then had 48 ICBM's and 80 Polaris missiles deployed in submarines. The Gaither Report, in short, proved to be wrong. By late 1959, the Russians did not in fact have 100 ICBM's.

From 1956 to 1960, when the flight of Francis Gary Powers ended the program, the CIA was secretly overflying Russia with U2 reconnaissance planes. But the Air Force photo analysts consistently "saw" more Russian missiles on the films brought back than did the CIA.

The Air Force pushed hard for more money and more missiles to counter the alleged "gap," and there were continual secret arguments inside the Pentagon and the U.S. intelligence community about Soviet missile and bomber strength.

The key to the Gaither Report was that it amounted to an estimate of what the Russians could do, rather than what they might, and did in fact do. As such it was a classic illustration of the limitations and difficulties of intelligence-gathering, especially when it relates to the intentions of another government.

Through The Years

THIRTY YEARS AGO—Warren Martin of Hammondville enrolled as a freshman at Muskingum College, New Concord.

The True Blue Fox Hunters Club held its ninth annual meet at the farm of Sam Williams near Newell.

TWENTY YEARS AGO—One of every three auto owners in the East Liverpool district was without a 1946 driver's license and was cautioned of arrest and a fine if caught driving.

A white bloom exhibited by Henry Patterson of Wellsville was judged the largest perfect dahlia in the amateur class during the annual show of the Wellsville Glad - Dahlia Club.

TEN YEARS AGO—More Reeves pheasants were released at the Brush Creek Game Reserve by the Wildlife Division of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources.

Estimating Hancock County's school needs in the next few years, Supt. Robert Hall told a countywide meeting at New Cumberland High School that new classrooms costing $5 million would be required by 1960.

Delay For 14-B Issue

By David Lawrence

More Study Needed On Labor Legislation

It's better for all concerned to let the pending bill on compulsory unionization be put aside until the January session of Congress as seems likely now. The labor leaders will not admit it publicly, but privately they, too, know that they could benefit by the delay.

A wait of David Lawrence only three or four months before the subject can be taken up in the new Congress is not a serious delay. In fact, both sides are going to need the time to prepare for one of the most significant battles in legislative history for it's probable that this highly controversial bill is going to be the principal issue in the next session of Congress and perhaps in the congressional campaign itself.

The controversy is widening. It won't be confined solely to whether the 19 states which have right-to-work laws are to be permitted to retain them. A counter effort now will be made to ban compulsory unionization in all the 50 states. There is believed to be a narrow majority in Congress at present in favor of repealing section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act, which permits the states to decide for themselves whether they wish to allow compulsory unionization.

IF THE SECTION is repealed, it will mean that no state can hereafter enact or keep in force a law on this subject, and all must obey a nationwide prohibition ordered by Congress.

While the majority in favor of such a repeal at present is narrow, the defenders of the principle of individual freedom to join or not to join a union are convinced that the American people have not yet learned the basic facts about the issue and that there has been much misconception about what is actually involved.

This has prompted opponents of compulsory unionization to seek a complete overhaul of all labor legislation. There is, for example, much dissatisfaction on the part of management with the rulings of the National Labor Relations Board. Likewise, appointments to the National Labor Relations Board have been severely criticized. The board has become in some respects an instrument of administration policy instead of an impartial body. Already bills have been introduced in Congress to set up a court of labor relations which would be part of the judicial system, somewhat like the U.S. tax court.

THERE ARE other problems in labor-management relations which are bound to come under review. Such questions as how far the power to strike shall be carried and to what extent unions may be made liable for damage incurred through "wild-cat" strikes are likely to produce several amendments to the proposed repeal of section 14B. In fact, an entirely new labor law may be written, revising and clarifying some of the provisions of the federal Corrupt Practices Act that relate to campaign contributions.

At present, labor unions, like corporations, are forbidden to contribute "anything of value" to candidates in federal elections. But in view of the stretching of federal power in the recent voting-rights law, there would seem to be no question about the power of Congress to prohibit campaign contributions not only in federal but in state, city and county elections.

Up to now, the labor unions have set up separate organizations to carry on political activities, and theoretically no labor union money is contributed to such organizations. There is no doubt, however, that many labor union officials, by donating time paid for by the unions, are giving directly to political campaigns something that can be classed as "anything of value."

THE LAWS on the statute books are rather strict about the activities of corporations, but here, too, there is need for reform, because some businesses allow one or more executives to spend company time working in political campaigns. This, of course, is also a form of contribution that can be defined as "anything of value."

The whole subject needs further study, and the labor laws certainly are ripe for revision, for it has been a long time since these problems have been tackled by Congress.

Letter To The Editor

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

The gentlemen who has custody of the modern school plant sees and makes an impression on more children and more citizens daily than any other person in the school district. The custodian, therefore, plays an educational role.

Every person employed by a school district has a specific function which, when placed alongside the work performed by others, forms a link in the chain that holds the educational program together.

Each link must contribute to the education of the child behind the classroom desk. Most people when they think of schools think for the most part of the classroom teachers. Seldom do they picture people necessary to carry out the various phases of the program, like the gardener, custodian or the maintenance man. This is true even among teachers, administrators and boards of education.

WHEN IT comes time to prepare a budget and the various cuts must be made, it is usually done at the expense of maintenance and operation. The cut in maintenance and operation of our schools could be costly. Neglect for even one year can be very costly. The custodian today is not the janitor of yesterday. Changing the title of the janitor to custodian did not just happen. The janitor of yesterday had few duties that could be compared to the custodian of today. The term "custodian" means custody of an expensive school plant.

A custodian needs special training. Unless he receives special training and continuing training, there can be a considerable loss in the invested tax dollar. Therefore, depriving him of the necessary tools and materials, reducing his wage to a point where he, as a qualified person, is no longer interested, can deprive the school of a "link" important to the educational program.

Recently, a large summer class on school operation held at one of our large universities was asked this question: "How many present remember their elementary school principals?" A few hands were raised. The same question was asked relative to eighth-grade teachers with similar results. The students then were asked if they remembered their school janitor tors or custodians. Almost every hand was raised.

CHILDREN attend school to learn certain subjects and skills, both instructional and emotional, which will prepare them for life in their era. Anything that impresses them there is part of their education. The custodian apparently does impress children. Therefore, he should be considered a teacher.

Whether the impression he leaves is good or bad depends on the administration. How well is he fitted for his position? Is he properly supplied with tools and materials? Does he like children? Does he get along well with teachers? Ask yourself these questions, think them over, and then make such adjustments as may be indicated.

Remember, your custodian sees more children and more of the public each day than any other person in your school. He is important to you and your program and must be considered as such.

Down In Dumps

★ ★ ★ Cities Need Garbage Collectors

By JERRY BUCK
NEW YORK (AP) — If you are sociable, honest, diplomatic and can lift 100 pounds there may be a job waiting for you — as a garbage collector. Some cities are finding themselves with too much garbage and too few people to collect it. And what to do with it after they've collected it has a few city councils, if you'll pardon the comparison, down in the dumps. Little Rock, Ark., for instance, is looking for bouncers — the men who haul garbage cans from back yards and bounce their contents into the trucks. The work force was short 29 a week ago and the city hired 19 men. But six quit Saturday and Little Rock started this week 16 collectors short. Atlanta is another city where the garbage is piling up. "The biggest break we've had is using students," said Stafford

Graydon, city sanitary engineer. "Last Saturday we had 30 students on the job and it looks like we're going to have up to 150 students before long." The school boys collect $14.39 for working on Saturdays. Garbagemen in Miami struck the same week as Hurricane Betsy. The collectors walked out in protest of $1.40 an hour wages, prohibitions against scavenging for useful items and against the computer. A rule which seemed to particularly irritate the garbagemen was that if the computer made a mistake in their paychecks they had to wait until the next payday to get it corrected. In the meantime, Dade County is trying to raise their pay and eliminate some of the objections. City Collector Adam W. Wilson of Portland, Maine, says he has a constant problem of finding "good collectors with the right requisites."

Vodrey held the first phase of the hearing Saturday and then continued it until this morning to permit summoning of additional witnesses. Civil Service law requires him to conduct a formal inquiry in such cases. He may affirm, modify or dismiss the chief's charge. Vodrey indicated a ruling within 24 hours.

The chief's original order advised McDaniel that he was suspended without pay, effective Sept. 27. However, the application of the suspension was held in abeyance after the director continued the hearing.

McDaniel has remained on duty pending the outcome of the case.

Resumption Planned Monday In Street Job

Weather permitting, the Tri-State Asphalt Co. of Martins Ferry will resume work Monday on blacktop resurfacing of Pennsylvania Ave., Elizabeth St. and Harvey Ave. from State St. to the Ohio - Pennsylvania state line, the firm advised Safety-Service Director Robert E. Vodrey Thursday afternoon.

The firm told the director that because of the work a parking ban will be in effect from the state line west to Oakland Ave. That stretch apparently comprises the area in which the firm expects to work Monday, Vodrey said.

The firm applied a "tack coat" to the existing pavement last Monday, then halted work. It holds a State Highway Department contract for the job, in which the city's share is $8,000.

Lad Played With Chipmunk

California Doctors Save Little Boy From Plague

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — In the woods near his home the little boy found a chipmunk.

It was strangely tame and docile and it trembled as he cuddled it in his hands.

The boy didn't know the chipmunk was dying.

Nor could anyone know that a flea hopped from the tiny creature and later bit the boy.

Within hours, the bacillus of bubonic plague was beginning to move through the bloodstream of five-year-old Johnny Cox.

Bubonic plague, the "black death," probably has killed more persons than all the wars in which mankind has engaged.

Johnny Cox was in grave condition when he was taken to a hospital Sept. 17. There was a prompt diagnosis, although less than one per cent of the nation's doctors has ever seen a case of plague.

Massive shots of antibiotics followed. As days passed the progress of the disease slowed, then halted.

Doctors reported Johnny should be able to go home early next week.

Dr. Edward Shaw, head of the department of pediatrics at University of California Medical Center, San Francisco, said Johnny had the least serious form of bubonic plague. The type is known as "sylvatic plague," from the Latin word for woods or forest.

Sylvatic plague has been discovered among wild rodents in 131 counties of 15 Western states. It is transmitted by fleas and is found in field mice, ground squirrels, rabbits, prairie dogs, chipmunks and other creatures of woods and fields.

Johnny is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cox of the Northern California foothill community of Shingletown, Shasta County. His father is employed in a lumber mill.

A day or so after the chipmunk incident, his family was visiting in Santa Rosa, 50 miles north of San Francisco.

Johnny became ill. His fever soared and he had chills. His head ached. There were sharp pains in his arms and legs, and swelling of the lymph glands in the neck, armpits and groin.

At Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital two pediatricians, Dr. Louis Manachof and Dr. George Rostel, held urgent consultations and came up with the diagnosis — the plague. Emergency treatment began.

On Sept. 21, Johnny was transferred to the University Medical Center in San Francisco. Under directions of Dr. Shaw, the diagnosis first was double-checked. Some fluid from the boy's bone marrow was applied to a couple of experimental mice. They died.

Treatments began to build up — the use of sulfadiazine and antibiotics such as streptomycin, and the more recently developed tetracyclines.

By Sept. 27, Johnny was able to tell reporters who visited him at the hospital: "I had a chipmunk once, but it died. I don't like chipmunks anymore. I'm not going to play with them anymore."

There have been three cases of sylvatic plague in California in the past five years, with one death.

2 Attorneys Today Present Reapportionment Case In Court

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Democrats and Republicans who could not get together on reapportioning the Ohio Legislature are in full agreement on the spokesman who will present the case in federal court against changing the system by which state senators are elected.

Senate leaders of both parties tapped attorneys Hugh A. Sherer of Columbus and Kenneth Weinberg of Cleveland for the job of presenting the argument here today before a special three-judge panel in federal court.

The court has set an Oct. 15 deadline for submission of a reapportionment plan. Today's hearing is on a suit filed by Clarence Blosser of Logan, who asked the court to declare the present apportionment of the Senate unconstitutional.

Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe will attend the hearing as representative of the Ohio Apportionment Board. He is expected to submit a reapportionment plan to the court in the next few days.

One such plan was filed Monday by state Rep. Thomas A. Pottenger of Cincinnati, a Republican. Pottenger's plan calls for the election of two senators next year from each of Ohio's 24 congressional districts, and for revision of senatorial districts after the 1970 census.

The special court ordered the legislative reapportionment after several suits were filed charging that urban counties are under-represented in the Ohio General Assembly.

Sherer and Weinberg, the attorneys who will present the argument before the court today, have both taken part in other reapportionment cases. They were retained by Sens. Theodore M. Gray of Piqua, the GOP leader, and Frank W. King of Toledo, leader of Senate democrats. The two leaders said their party members concurred with the choices.

Castro Offers Free Flights To Refugees

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro offered an open-door policy today, including two free flights daily, to Cubans wishing to leave the Communist-dominated island for the United States.

Castro, in a statement broadcast by Havana Radio, elaborated on his offer of Tuesday in which he said he would allow any Cubans to leave their homeland to join relatives or go into exile in the United States.

U.S. officials at that time voiced doubt of Castro's statement, saying it was a propaganda move. "The North American State Department declared that if my words of Sept. 28 related to those who desired to leave for the U.S. were serious, I should make the proposal through diplomatic channels, in which case the State Department would give it a most careful consideration," Castro said.

The prime minister said in the broadcast, monitored here, that "we maintain the decision that from Oct. 10 we will give absolute guarantees and facilities to all those who wish to come to Cuba by their own means or to pick up their relatives."

Piece Of Green Earth

Every Man At Some Time Harbors Desire To Own One

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Every man at one time harbors the desire to own a piece of green earth.

Many people who work in the city satisfy this yearning by buying a small Valhalla in the suburbs measuring 60 by 100 feet.

Then they wear out their lives paying for it and going to and from it.

Some of my best friends and worst enemies dwell in the suburbs, and I feel equally sorry for them all.

They don't live where they work and they don't work where they live. They are people in eternal transit. Actually, they aren't people at all. They are prisoners of back and forth.

Their pleasures are adjusted to a timetable. Their greatest daily victory or defeat is to catch or miss a certain train or bus that carries them into the city in the morning or home from the city in the evening.

Suburbs make me bilious. Whenever I hear a suburbanite praise his lot in life it sounds to me like a slave admiring his chains.

Yet, much as I dislike the suburbs, I share all men's desire for a personal Eden.

The quest of it has occupied most of the weekends of the quarter century I have lived in New York. The way I do it is this: First, I get my wife to carry in the Sunday newspaper, because if any back in the family has to be sprung it might as well be hers.

Next I spread out the editorial section for the cat. Then I lie down on the floor, open the real estate section and spend endless happy hours looking for bargains.

Then, while out on a stroll, I discovered the green spot on earth I would most like to have as my own.

It is an ideal setting for a perfect home. It has picturesque boulders and a tremendous view of the city's skyline. I could walk to it from work.

There is a lake in it big enough to row on. It echoes in summer to the music of a carousel. It has winding paths in it, little glades to pause and dream in, plenty of space to pitch horseshoes or play baseball.

It throbs with all kinds of wild life—alligators, elephants, lions, squirrels and polar bears.

The trouble with this paradise I'd like to build a permanent home in is that it isn't for sale. They call it Central Park.

AP General Manager Defends Newspapers

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — West Gallagher, Associated Press general manager, defended newspapers today against criticism that they impaired "the national interest" by publishing unpleasant news from Viet Nam and other trouble spots.

In an address to the Associated Press Managing Editors annual meeting, Gallagher said government officials invoked the "national interest" phrase in an attempt to discourage such news stories.

He declared: "We are not a vehicle to serve the 'national interest' as defined by politicians, but to publish the truth as we see it. This is our birthright and our basic role in serving the public."

Gallagher's report opened a full day of activity at the gathering of AP-member editors from across the nation. The five-day convention runs to noon Saturday.

Today's program included a luncheon speech by Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson on her favorite theme — beautifying America. In her prepared speech, Mrs.

Johnson challenged newspaper editors to cover what she called the biggest story in their hometowns, beauty, and said:

"If our metropolitan newspapers do not care enough to fight for the very life of our great cities, who will?"

Other speakers included R. Sargent Shriver, director of the Peace Corps and of the federal antipoverty program, and Mrs. Evelyn Lincoln who was secretary to the late President John F. Kennedy.

Today's program also featured a documentary film on Viet Nam, made from AP news-photos, followed by talks by AP photographer Horst Faas and Charles Lynch, chief of news services for the Southam Newspapers of Canada.

Faas won a Pulitzer Prize for his Viet Nam coverage. Lynch's topic was news coverage of Red China.

Air Traffic To Bases In Antarctic Resumes

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand (AP)—Air traffic to U.S. bases in the Antarctic resumed today with the end of winter there.

Four ski-equipped Navy Hercules transports left just after midnight for the 2,250-mile flight to the main American base at McMurdo Sound.

The planes carried 4,300 pounds of mail for the 289 Americans who have spent six months of winter isolation on the southernmost continent. The planes also carried 134 passengers.

Rain Doesn't Dampen Farm Science Interest

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Rain washed out some field activities at the Ohio State Farm Science Review Thursday, but failed to dampen interest in the event.

Some 25,000 persons jammed nearby Don Scott Field to see the big exhibition of agricultural advances. That brought to 47,500 the total attendance for the first two days this year, compared to 60,000 for the review's entire three days last year.

Superintendents Back Ohio Sales Tax Hike

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Passage of the proposed state sales tax increase was endorsed Thursday by the Ohio County Superintendents Association in a policy statement.

The association said the tax increase, from three to four cents to provide an estimated $116 million annually in additional state funds for education, is "essential to the maintenance of an adequate elementary and high school educational system in Ohio."

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruise —

Dear Heloise: Corduroy has a nap running up and down. Some people tell me that the nap should go up, and others say it should go down. Please tell me which is correct?

JANE ELLIOTT.

Dear Jane: After receiving your letter, I called the top authority at the Corduroy Council of America, and here is her answer:

"The first rule for any pile fabric (corduroy, velvet, etc.) is to cut and sew the nap all in the same direction. . . whether you are making something to wear or for the home.

"If you hold up a length of corduroy or velvet, you will see that it looks lighter when the pile runs down — darker when the pile runs up.

"Most corduroy (and velvet) is used with the pile running DOWN—for wearability. This is true of men's trousers or women's skirts, when the hand naturally smooths the garment DOWNWARD.

"It is only when you want an intensity of color that you use it with the nap running UP. This is because the eye sees into the deep pile and the color appears clearer and deeper (such as in draperies where wear and sitting down isn't a factor).

"So if you want wearability, as most people do, then use the nap the way it is intended . . . running DOWN."

CLARE NELSON.

Thank you, Miss Nelson, for straightening out this problem with such a clear and simple answer.

We sure do appreciate YOU! HELOISE.

Sandwich Bags

DEAR HELOISE:

I buy inexpensive, plastic sandwich bags to store hamburger patties in the freezer. It is much easier than using waxed or plastic wrap-paper which has to be torn from the roll each time, and with which there is always a certain amount of waste. . .

MRS. L. L. SELF.

Time And Back Saver

DEAR HELOISE:

I think I have discovered a new idea that is a time saver and a back saver for house-cleaning.

I get out my seldom-used laundry cart (the kind with a cloth hamper on wheels), and place a cardboard box—or even better, an old plastic-foam summer ice chest—in the hamper.

I put my bucket of hot water with cleaning detergent in the box, and place other cleaning supplies around it. I take along the window squirt bottle, wax, cleanser, furniture polish, and lots of rags.

I can wheel the cart from room to room with everything handy, and no stooping and lifting.

With my vacuum cleaner, mop and wax applicator, I am all set to start.

One thing more, I attach a big paper sack with clothespins to the side of the cloth hamper, and can empty ash trays and wastebaskets as I go.

A READER

That's what I call using your head to save your heels! HELOISE.

Shower Soap Cache

Dear Heloise:

Did you ever step into the shower to discover there was no soap?

I keep an extra bar in a plastic bag hanging from the shower nozzle.

R. STITHAM.

Gift Wrapping

DEAR HELOISE:

To simplify and cut down the expense of gift wrapping, I bought a roll of plain white shelf paper, and some of that tape that's sticky on both sides.

For a baby shower, I just wrap the gift in the white paper and tape on some darling baby pictures cut out of a magazine.

For a bridal shower I tape on a "Heloise Bride"—a little clothespin face with pipe cleaner arms, and a bunch of little flowers in her hand. Her dress is a paper napkin folded from the corner, and the veil is a nylon net dishcloth.

One can use any picture to fit the occasion. No ribbon is needed, and you will have different and attractive looking packages.

MOLLY RUSH.

Auto Injures East End Girl

A 3-year-old East End girl escaped serious injury when she was bumped by an auto in front of her home about noon Thursday, police reported.

Denise Ferree, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Ferree, 1067 Elmwood St., suffered a bump on the back of the head when knocked down by a 1963 model four-door sedan operated by John Kite Jr., 38, of Bethel Park, Pa., officers said.

The mishap occurred directly in front of the parents' home. The family said the youngster apparently was following her grandfather, Benjamin Ferree, 1071 Elmwood St., who had gone to his parked car across the street to drive to a store. He was unaware the child was playing on the sidewalk.

The child was treated and X-rayed at City Hospital, then released.

Kite told Patrolman William A. Devon he was driving west about 15 miles an hour when he heard a "thump" and then saw the child sitting on the pavement.

Kite took the child to the hospital. The mishap was timed at 11:11 a. m.

'Tonight' Is Every Night With Carson

Johnny Carson looks a little tense after three years of the "Tonight" show he begins No. 4 tonight at 11:30, Channel 11, but not nearly so much as his predecessors, Jack Paar, following a similar period of nightly TV servitude.

Carson has neither cried Hal Humphrey nor walked off the show—at least no farther than his dressing room, where he did spend a couple of sit-ins to pressure NBC into relieving him of an opening 15 minutes for just a part of the network.

"I TRIED to negotiate with them on that, but couldn't," he maintains. "I didn't like sitting it out, but they left me no choice."

This slender young man has the naive notion that when a show is grossing $19 million a year, the bosses might make a few concessions to its star. He continues to be irritated, too, because his New York-based shows are seen a day later in the Western states.

"I've heard," says Carson, "that it's a matter of $8,000 a week in cable charges, which isn't so much alongside of $19 million. Meanwhile, when I sign off Friday night in New York and say, 'Have a good weekend,' the people in California have already had their weekend because they don't see that show until Monday."

THE CONSTANCY of committing himself before millions of viewers five nights a week and 52 weeks a year may be getting to Carson somewhat, he admits, but he refuses to be bugged by his competition, i.e. the "Nightlife" show on ABC with Les Crane.

"I've been on TV too long to worry about what's opposite me. You're always going to be opposite something," he says philosophically. "Anyway, I'm not competing with Crane. It's the relationship with the guests that counts on these shows, and mine is completely different."

"I'VE DONE, I mean talked about, birth control or civil rights, but not to create controversy. For example, I wouldn't take Madalyn Murray, the atheist, on my show."

"When Crane had her some time ago, he tried to bait her and obviously stir up controversy. I don't think that's honest, and I would be a hypocrite if I did it, so what would I be proving?"

"I'm not going to sit and argue with her. She has a right to her opinion. Crane really didn't want to convince her she was wrong, I don't think. But then there is the next night. What does he do then to top Mrs. Murray—interview someone on prostitution?"

CARSON PREFERS guests like the acrimonious Henry Morgan or iconoclastic Al Capp, whose frequently tongue-in-cheek opinions range across the whole spectrum of social mores.

The search for new talent in this talk category poses a chronic problem for Carson and his scouts. Types like comics Woody Allen and Jackie Vernon don't come along every day. Then, too, Carson must take a certain number of what might be termed "house guests"—stars of other NBC shows who are foisted on him by the network for the promotional plug.

"Ah! Therein lies the problem," sighs Carson. "There also is a steady stream of callers and letter writers who charitably could be called 'unforgettable characters' who want to be on Carson's show. They get quite pushy and troublesome if thwarted."

IN HIS MAIL the day we talked was a missive from a man who claimed he had mailed Carson a tape recording 18 months ago which contained psychiatric proof that "physically connects Ponce de Leon with myself," and demanded to know what had happened to "this valuable tape."

"How would I know?" Carson shrugged wearily to one of his aides. "If he's in touch with Ponce de Leon, what does he need with me?"

The accident occurred at 8:50 when the auto driven by Setzer failed to negotiate a curve, side-swiped the car driven by Joseph, spun sideways and then slid into the path of the car driven by Pulse. All three autos were damaged extensively.

Admitted to City Hospital were Setzer, with a lacerated forehead and abrasions of the right knee; Hunt, a passenger in Setzer's car, with lacerations of both knees, and Miss Wittenbach, a passenger in Pulse's car, with injuries of the left ankle and knee. All were listed in "fair" condition.

Pulse and Joseph were treated and released.

EAST PALESTINE — Eastern Standard Time schedules will return Monday for 2,275 public school and 177 parochial students, although the city itself will remain on "fast" time until Oct. 31.

School officials for a number of years have ordered the early return to standard time, which they say provides a safer bus transportation schedule in the fall when mornings are foggy.

Meeting at the Ohio Valley Gas Co. branch in Glenmoor with County Commissioner James Boyd, they announced plans for discussing the airport matter with Norm Crabtree, Ohio aviation chief; Ed Sargus, state senator; Floyd Lower, chairman of the Columbiana County planning commission, and Frank Wilson and Max Gard, county commissioners.

Present at the meeting were Boyd, Bob Lewis, Frank Fusco, Paul Zehnder, Chuck Lang, Vince Laneve and Alfred Fricano.

Jaycee representatives will meet again Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the 6th St. office of the gas company.

7-Hour Roundup Of 8 Deer Ends As Trailer Tilts

CIRCLEVILLE, Ohio — Highway Patrolmen and several adventurous helpers completed a seven-hour roundup early today, after retrieving eight deer that escaped from an overturned trailer on Interstate 71.

A patrol dispatcher here said 55 deer were in the homemade trailer, which was being pulled by a pickup truck driven by a California woman.

Three deer were killed when the trailer overturned Thursday night about five miles north of Ohio 56 in northwest Pickaway County. The truck remained upright and the woman, Mrs. Treva L. Robinson of Sylmar, Calif., was not injured.

Two employees of the Columbus Zoo, two state game protectors and several area residents aided in the roundup.

Mrs. Robinson said she was taking the deer to Texas, the patrol reported, but it was not known where she had picked them up. She was driving alone.

The 52-deer that survived the wreck were taken by truck to a farm in the area.

C5A Plane Means Big Pacts For Ohio Plant

CINCINNATI (AP) — The $2 billion Defense Department contract for the huge C5A jet transport will mean hundreds of millions of dollars worth of contracts for the General Electric Co. jet engine plant in suburban Evendale.

Rep. John J. Gilligan, D-Ohio, said Thursday as Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara announced the contract award to Lockheed Aircraft Corp. that GE will get $460 million for engines for 58 of the planes.

Gilligan also said the Evendale plant will get up to $500 million in other contracts from the Air Force.

GE officials say the contracts will mean thousands of new jobs at the sprawling jet engine plant.

Valuation Of Utilities Set In West Virginia

CHARLESTON — The West Virginia Tax Department has decreased tentative assessed valuations of 331 West Virginia public utilities by $916,000 for next year.

The valuations are used by counties in figuring the utilities property tax payments.

The tentative valuations now go to the Board of Public Works, which will hold hearings starting Oct. 18. After the hearings the board will set the final valuations.

Tax Commissioner G. Thomas Battle said the over-all net decrease of $916,000, to $873,483,000, resulted from lower valuations of the utilities Class 1 property — stocks, notes, accounts receivable and other evidences of indebtedness.

However, Battle said tentative valuations in Class III and Class IV—real estate and other physical property except railroads are up $2.52 million over this year.

The five largest tentative valuations on property in classes III and IV are:

Norfolk & Western Railway, $124 million, down $4 million from the final 1965 figure; Appalachian Power Co., $117 million, up $1.40 million; Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, $87 million, down $8 million; Monongahela Power Co., $74 million, up $2 million, and United Fuel Gas Co., $68.6 million, up $3 million.

An increase of $3,999,900, to $59,500,000, has been set tentatively for the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co.

County OK's Signal Plans In Glenmoor

LISBON — Plans for a traffic control signal for the intersection of Lisbon St. Ext. and the Y. & O. Rd. at Glenmoor were approved by the Columbiana County commissioners Thursday.

The commissioners OK'd recommendations of Earl Nelson, Division 11 deputy director of the Ohio Highway Department, for the traffic-activated signal at the intersection.

Glenmoor residents have been urging such a signal for the intersection — which now has stop signs facing on the Y. & O. Rd. — to curb the accident hazard.

The recommendations were the result of a preliminary survey by the highway department.

In other action, the Commissioners approved a revised estimate for the cost of repairs to a bridge on W. Main St. in Salineville. The estimate came from the Highway Department. The cost, formerly set at $6,000, is now $9,600, with the county now paying $2,400, or 25 per cent of the cost.

The commissioners also approved the final payment of $2,708.93 to Robert Beatty, East Liverpool architect, for architectural work on the new county home nursing unit. Beatty's total fee is $24,732.81.

The officials also awarded a bid for six binders for Probate Court to the Columbus Blank Book Co. of Columbus for $129.

A $35 travel allowance was approved for William Wark, a county Welfare Department caseworker, to transport a boy to the Hershey School for Boys at Hershey, Pa.

Distribution Set On Surplus Food

LISBON — A total of 27,270 pounds of 10 surplus food items was distributed during September to needy families in Columbiana County.

Welfare Director Robert Bycroft said 1,731 of the 1,940 eligible, a response of 89 per cent, reported at the five distribution centers.

He announced the October distribution will be the week of Oct. 18 as follows: Monday, East Liverpool Central Fire Station; Tuesday, East Palestine City Building; Wednesday, Salem City Hall; Thursday, Wellsville American Legion, and Friday, Lisbon, County Welfare office.

Distribution hours are from 9 a.m. until noon. Aid for the aged, which is on an every-other-month schedule, also will be distributed this month.

A breakdown of the September food distribution by pounds follows: Beans, 7,222; flour, 5,550; canned meats, 3,416; dried milk, 2,722; cheese, 1,722; margarine, 1,678; rolled wheat, 1,608; lard 1,454; rice 1,368 and peanut butter 480.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a widow who is trying to raise a boy alone. Gerald's father died when the boy was 6 years old. The boy is now 13 and believe me, Ann, I've had my hands full.

I'm active in our church auxiliary and I hold a state office. I must go to meetings every Tuesday night. There are three very nice young girls in the neighborhood I call on to sit with Gerald. The little red-headed girl is 16. The other two girls are 15.

Last night Gerald asked me who I had called to sit with him and I told him "Gracie." (She is one of the 15-year-olds.) He said, "I'd rather have the red-head."

This made me stop and think about something that never crossed my mind before. Please read between the lines and tell me your ideas on the subject.—CONECERNED MOTHER.

Dear Mother: When a boy is old enough to ask for a red-headed baby sitter, he is old enough to stay home alone.

Paying Passenger

Dear Ann: I'm in my third year of college and I'm going with a girl who is in her second year. I drive my car to school every day and take four passengers regularly. Dorothy is one of my steady riders.

We were just pals when she started to ride with me almost two years ago and I charged her the same as I charged the others. In the last six months we have fallen in love and plan to be married.

Last night Dorothy told me her parents think it is awfully cheap of me to charge her to ride in my car. They felt it was okay at the beginning but now that we are almost engaged they don't think I should collect from her.

We both work part-time and make the same wages. I feel she should pay because then I can take her to better places. She seems to side with her folks. This is the first serious disagreement we have had in two years and it bothers me. What do you think? — T.C.

Dear T.C.: When Dorothy first started to ride in your car she was just a passenger. Now that you're planning to marry, please stop collecting money from her, Bub.

Suspicious Spouse

Dear Ann: What can I do about a man who has such a dirty, suspicious mind that he constantly is embarrassing me in front of friends and relatives?

If I wave a friendly hello to my daughter's music teacher he pulls me aside and says, "What's been going on between you two anyway?" If we are at a party and I have a brief conversation with a man my husband comes over and says, "What are you two arranging?"

The other evening my sister and her husband were visiting us and the telephone rang. It was a wrong number. My husband blurted out, "Wrong number my foot. That was probably one of Ruth's boy friends."

I have never given him any reason to mistrust me. We have six children and a 10-room house. His mother lives with us. Where would I find the time and energy to chase with men?

Everyone laughs when he makes these crude remarks but I know he's not kidding. What should I do? — MORTIFIED.

Dear Mortified: A man who is so brutal and punishing has a sick mind. Get him to a professional where he can unload his hostilities and then, hopefully, he'll stop picking on you.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Parking Ticket Funds

Due Hike In Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland police expect to increase parking ticket revenue by $100,000 and save considerable manpower by new procedures in handling tickets.

One change, said Sgt. Howard A. Blackwell, head of the Police Data Processing Unit, will be to check records of persons receiving moving traffic citations. When these persons appear in court on their citations they will also pay any parking tickets outstanding against them.

Union To Aid Members Hit By Hurricane

The International Brotherhood of Operative Potters said today it is marshalling aid for 50 of its members who lost their homes and their possessions when Hurricane Betsy hit the New Orleans area.

The IBOP said the hurricane victims are members of its Local 220, which represents workers in the sanitary ware industry there. The extent of the losses among the IBOP members was reported to international headquarters by Jake Schwab, president of the local.

E. L. Wheatley, president, has delegated Lester Null, vice president, to "proceed immediately" to New Orleans to cooperate with the local's officers and relief committee.

The IBOP Executive Board urged members and locals to mail contributions to: Local 220 Relief Committee, 2428 Charles Dr., Chalmette, La., 70043.

Schwab pointed out to IBOP headquarters that losses from a surge of flood waters are uninsured and that the potters and other victims have no hope of recovering claims from insurance companies. He said the homes and other possessions of more than 50 members of Local 220 "were completely wiped out."

Schwab appealed for aid from other IBOP members.

The union said its international officers "strongly support and endorse this appeal for these people, who for many years never have hesitated in assisting other areas, whatever the situation."

Following his initial inspection of the damage to IBOP members' possessions, Null is scheduled to file a report with the Executive Board.

Ohio Pike's Revenue Gained In September

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Ohio Turnpike Commission reported today that September was the 17th consecutive month in which turnpike revenue was more than the succeeding corresponding month—making it a pleasant way to celebrate the 10th anniversary of the toll road.

James W. Shocknessy, commission chairman, said, "It is just 10 years to the day since the Ohio Turnpike opened in its entirety and it is a satisfaction to say that revenue for the month of September reached approximately $2.85 million — an all-time record for that month."

The Westinghouse Method . . .

Coach Pete Dimperio of Pittsburgh Westinghouse, the team which defeated Steubenville Central last week, doesn't believe much in scouting, movies and the like.

Dimperio, in listing his training methods, said, "We don't need sleds, we don't need dummies and we don't need movies. We don't overlook the real fundamental — love for the game."

His records speak for themselves. Only two teams have scored as many as two touchdowns against Westinghouse in the last two years.

Offensively, Dimperio employs the single wing. His teams have won the Pittsburgh City championship 16 of the last 19 years and either have won or shared the honors 27 times since 1919.

Coach Rich Pont of Central said: "It is the best single wing team I have ever seen. They have precision timing."

The Way The Ball Bounces . . .

THE CRYSTAL ball was shaken from its foundation by a flurry of stunning upsets on the district football scene last weekend.

After such a weekend, there's a tendency to pitch the ball off the nearest bridge, but with hopes high that the situation will straighten out, we're putting our selections squarely on the line again this week.

Last week was one of our worst in several seasons as the football continued to take crazy bounces. Our percentage was eight right and five wrong.

Missing the big ones is what hurts. But as long as football is played there always be upsets. Oak Glen pulled one of the big ones by rocking East Liverpool, the combined forces of Newell, Chester and New Cumberland showing some great defensive football.

The other strange twist to last week's results came at Beaver where Midland was handed a resounding 33-0 setback. Another surprise was at Toronto. Although the Red Knights were favored, we felt Wells-ville would come closer.

Getting to tonight's games first, Oak Glen has a big one at Triadelphia. If the Bears aren't too high from last week, they should win another. A letdown could be in order, but we'll take Oak Glen by one touchdown.

The battle of the unbeaten unfolds when Wayne visits Stanton Local. It's Stanton to win No. 4 by a TD. Minerva looks like a winner over Columbiana in the Tri-County League, with East Palestine to take its first at Leetonia. The nod goes to Salem in its backyard battle with West Branch.

The card is filled with big games Saturday afternoon and night.

East Liverpool faces another tough task Saturday night. The Potters will be on the rebound, but don't let Steubenville's record fool you. The Crusaders lost to a tough Ohio team in Columbus East and probably the best Western Pennsylvania has to offer in Pittsburgh Westinghouse.

The pick here is East Liverpool by the margin of a touchdown, but only after a hard-fought battle.

Wellsville gets the edge over Southern Local, while Beaver Local is picked over the much-improved Jefferson Union team of Norm Allison.

Midland's situation this week is somewhat cloudy. The Leopards were ripped last week and must play an undefeated Burgettstown team Saturday afternoon. Midland has injuries, so we will take Burgettstown by a TD.

Poland gets the green light against Lisbon, North Lima is our pick over Crestview and United should roll by Springfield Local of Mahoning County.

U.S. Hope Faces Scotland Champ For British Title

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — Judy Bell, 29-year-old bespectacled Curtis Cup golf star from Colorado Springs, Colo., faced Scottish champion Mrs. Belle Robertson today in the next stage of her bid for the British women's title.

The two were scheduled to clash in the quarter-finals over the St. Andrews old course — and the predictions were that the weather would be as rough as ever. After three days of heavy rain, Thursday was drier but players had to contend with a swirling wind.

Miss Bell scored her biggest triumph of the week by downing the Scottish champion won by one Ruth Porter, the British Curtis Cupper, 3 and 2 in the fourth round in the morning. Then she went on to defeat Connie Lugton of Scotland by 3 and 1 in the afternoon to make the last eight.

Two French girls, Brigitte Varangot and Claudine Cros, are also challenging Britain's golf queens for the title. Both were paired against Curtis Cup stars in the quarter-finals today — Miss Varangot against Bridget Jackson and Miss Cros against Elizabeth Chadwick.

Mrs. Robertson defeated the only other remaining American hope, Mrs. Nancy Roth Syms of Hollywood, Fla., Thursday. The Scottish champion won by one hole after Mrs. Syms had twice squared the match.

McNea Looks For 'Hard-Hitting' Foe

Herring Gets Starting Job At Fullback

Coach Bob McNea looks for a "hard hitting" Central team to be facing the Potters Saturday night at Patterson Field.

The East Liverpool mentor pointed out that "while Central does not have the ability of the 1964 team, this year's squad is a typical, hardnosed, aggressive bunch of kids."

"CENTRAL has a quick team and while they have lost two games, both defeats have been to strong opponents," McNea said.

He was referring to Columbus East, which is currently rated among the top 20 teams in the United Press International ratings, and Pittsburgh Westinghouse, the perennial City Champion of Pittsburgh.

LOOKING over the Central lineup, McNea singled out quarterback Ed Narewski. "He could be the best quarterback we will face all season. He runs well and throws a very accurate pass."

With Buster Yannon leading the charge, Central defeated East Liverpool 44-18 last season.

McNea announced one change in the Potter lineup. Daryl Herring, who came out for football after practice started this season, will start at fullback Saturday in place of Larry Long.

"LONG has not been blocking or running as good as we would like," McNea said. Herring has flashed some good speed in previous games.

John Lowrey, who was impressive in his brief appearance against Midland, is another fullback candidate but has been slowed this week by an ankle injury.

McNea also announced that Roger Clendenning, 180-pound senior would see some action at end. Clendenning was injured in an accident before the season started but has shaken the injury and is ready for duty.

CLARENCE CRABLE, the Potters three year regular at linebacker and center, may be a questionable starter Saturday. Crable has been battling the flu this week.

East Junior Posts First Grid Victory

East Junior High cashed in for its first victory of the season with a 26-14 verdict over Columbiana on the East field Thursday afternoon.

Both teams scored in the first period with Jim Freeman tallying first for East on a 65 yard punt return. Herb Purton added the conversion for an 8-0 lead.

Gary Gregg, an outstanding quarterback prospect reeled off a 45-yard run for Columbiana but the young Clippers missed the conversion.

East pulled in front 14-6 in the third quarter when Purton plunged one yard from his fullback spot. The Panthers added two more TD's in the fourth quarter when Dudy Jones went three yards and quarterback Rick Steffen flipped a touchdown pass to Steve Douglas covering eight yards.

Columbiana tallied its second touchdown late in the fourth quarter on a 25-yard run by Dennis Webber and Gregg added the conversion.

The offense showed vast improvement for East which now has a 1-1-1 mark.

East Junior's eighth grade team will host East Palestine Tuesday at 4:15 p.m.

Mele Took Slice In Salary After '64 Season Ended

By LEW FERGUSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL

—You know the old story: Managers who don't win get fired."

Sam Mele was talking about the occupational tightrope he was walking a year ago today as manager of the Minnesota Twins.

The Twins, after finishing second in 1962 and third in 1963 under Mele, slumped to a tie with Cleveland for sixth place in 1964.

President Calvin Griffith said publicly he didn't blame Mele for the club's troubles, but he also would not commit himself about who his manager would be in 1965.

"Sure, I was looking around for other possible jobs," Mele said. "I've got a family to think about and I wasn't at all sure what the future held. I'm 43 years old."

"I talked to Curt Gowdy about becoming a member of the Boston Red Sox broadcasting team. That was a definite offer."

Soon after the 1964 World Series, Griffith talked to Mele in a New York hotel room. Griffith told Sam he would have to take a pay cut — using the logic that Mele demanded, and received, a big raise in pay the year before, so a cut was in order when the team slumped like it did. Mele put up only a token fight, took the pay cut and began making plans for 1965.

"I felt we were contenders, but we had to do certain things," Mele said. "The biggest thing was to change our tactics."

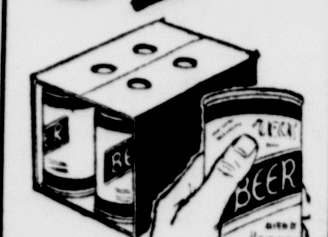

"I decided we had to hit and run and not wait for the home run."

The Twins clinched the 1965 AL pennant last Sunday.

Mele has always maintained excellent relations with the press, but he gets irritated sometimes by what he considers second-guessing in print.

"They've got a job to do," he said of reporters and columnists. "Sometimes I think they should understand why I make moves before they write about them. There have been times when I think they're second-guessing me in print without ever asking me what happened."

Nicklaus Two Strokes Back In Cup Match

MADRID, Spain (AP)—Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, still was considered the one to beat for the individual title even though he was two strokes down at the start of the second round play in the Canada Cup golf matches today.

Donald Swaelens of Belgium and Chen Ching-po of Nationalist China, tied at 69s, three-under-par, were the pace-setters in this international 72-hole tournament that ends Sunday.

There was a six-way tie at 70 between George Knudson of Canada, Kel Nagle of Australia, Gary Player of South Africa, Miguel Sala of Colombia, Ramon Sota of Spain and Robert de Vicenzo of Argentina. Then came Nicklaus with a 34-37-71.

"I'm well satisfied with that round," Nicklaus said after he completed play over the 7,096-yard Club de Camp course. He had only one practice round.

"I know the course better now," the U.S. Masters champion said.

Nicklaus' partner in the Canada Cup over a course well watered after six months of drought and now made soft by rain is Tony Lema, Oakland, Calif., former British Open champion.

Lema struggled around in 39-37-76 but said: "I reckon I got some of the bad blood out of me. Today's another day."

Nicklaus said the Madrid course reminded him of ones in Southern California and Arizona — "also ones well watered."

He said the course was a good test of golf and he doubted if there would be many low scorers at the end of the 72 holes Sunday.

Player and Harold Henning of South Africa led the team chase with a total of 142 after the first round. They were followed by Belgium, China and Spain at 143 with Australia next at 145 and Italy and Canada at 146.

Argentina, Hawaii, Colombia, United States, and Japan were bracketed at 147. New Zealand and Puerto Rico were one stroke behind at 148.

Forgotten Man Of Giants Answers Critics With Game-Winning Homer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — They called him "the forgotten man." People said he lacked desire. The more cruel ones called him a malingerer, a guy who looked for excuses not to play.

The army of critics grew in number and the accusers became bolder when Orlando Cepeda was forced out of action virtually all year because of a winter knee operation.

The same people who had cheered him for his great slugging years since the Giants moved to San Francisco in 1958, the ones who had adopted him as their own, nicknaming him "The Baby Bull," now looked upon him with suspicion.

It was as if it was his fault that the Giants were now trailing the Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League pennant race by two games instead of leading by a comfortable margin.

Orlando Cepeda, a kind and sensitive man, and a great ball player, is well aware of the cruel and unjust things said about him by unthinking people and he cannot find it in his heart to forgive them.

Thursday afternoon, after he had stepped up to the plate as a pinch hitter and slammed 3-2 pitch by Joe Nuxhall for a two-run homer that gave the Giants a 5-3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds, keeping the Giants' pennant hopes alive, the pride of Pence, P.R. couldn't restrain himself any longer.

It was part exhilaration, part relief, part redemption and part defiance that prompted him to give vent to his pent-up thoughts.

"I know what people say," he said his voice choking with emotion. "They say I don't want to play. They talk that I am faking it. I don't understand people who say such terrible things about me. People who say such untruths don't deserve to live. I have pride. God gave me ability to play baseball. It's my living. It's the thing I can do best. Why should I not want to do what I know best?"

"For two years I played on a knee that hurt every time I put pressure on it. I played when I should not have played. I did not even tell my manager."

"You can ask my wife, Anna, how many mornings, I could hardly get out of bed to go to the ball park. But I never told anybody. Even after the operation, I tried to play too soon. That's why I hurt the knee again. If I didn't want to play, why have I worked so hard with exercises and weights? Why did I take four injections in my knee just three weeks ago?"

Cepeda underwent surgery on his right knee last Dec. 7. The knee was still sore when he reported to spring training. Overzealous in his efforts to get in shape, he re-injured the knee and it grew worse. He started only four games all season and didn't finish one. His efforts

Griese Leads Purdue To SMU

Football Spotlight Falls On Texas This Weekend

By JIM HACKLEMAN

College football's current Man of the House, Bob Griese, leads Purdue against Southern Methodist and top-ranked Texas plays Indiana as the Lone Star State takes the spotlight Saturday night.

Griese was a sensation last week in the triumph over Notre Dame that carried the Boilermakers into the No. 2 national ranking. Texas took over the top spot from the Irish after swamping Texas Tech.

Both the Longhorns and the Boilermakers are solid favorites against the Hoosiers and the Mustangs.

In another Southwestern feature, also a night game, Arkansas goes after its 15th straight victory, against Texas Christian at Little Rock. The Razorbacks are rated No. 4 nationally.

Nebraska, Michigan and Michigan State are host teams in Midwestern highlights.

The Cornhuskers open defense of their Big Eight title against Iowa State. Michigan State plays Illinois in what is a key Big Ten match for this stage of the season. And Michigan entertains Georgia in an intersectional pairing of ranked powers.

Nebraska is third in The Associated Press ratings, Michigan seventh, Michigan State ninth and Georgia 10th.

Notre Dame comes off the Purdue loss against another Big Ten club, Northwestern, at South Bend. Navy plays at Oklahoma and Iowa is at Wisconsin for a Big Ten game.

Louisiana State and Kentucky, two contenders for the title in the bruising Southeastern conference, visit league rivals, LSU, rated No. 5 nationally, is at Florida and Kentucky, No. 6, is at Auburn.

Alabama, still a tough challenger for the SEC crown despite an opening day upset by Georgia, meets Mississippi at Birmingham. Tulane is at home to Miami of Florida, Mississippi State entertains Tampa and Vanderbilt is at Wake Forest for nonconference games.

Pitt tackles West Virginia in their annual skirmish and Syracuse, bombed by Miami in one of last week's big surprises, is at Maryland.

Southern California, propelled by Mike Garrett and rated the best on the West Coast, has its first Pacific Eight game of the season, against Oregon State at home.

Arizona and Wyoming, two unbeaten Western Athletic Conference teams, lock horns at Laramie, while a third strong WAC member, Brigham Young, faces Oregon State at Corvallis, Ore.

Boston College will try to enhance its rising prestige in the East, invading West Point to take on a so-so Army team. Princeton is at Columbia and Brown at Penn in the Ivy League, and UCLA plays at Penn State.

Bucks Face Huskies, Key Mid-Am Tilts Set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Key games mark the Ohio collegiate football schedule this weekend.

Ohio State, Ohio University, Miami, Akron and Dayton, still seeking their first victories, go against stiff opposition.

Unbeaten Toledo, Wittenberg and Xavier will be out to preserve their perfect records.

Ohio State's intersectional tilt at Washington, three important Mid-American Conference contests and the Akron - Wittenberg clash highlight the 22-game program.

The Buckeyes, a surprise 14-3 loser to North Carolina last week, will be trying to regain some lost prestige in their conflict with the Huskies. The nationally televised game is rated a tossup.

Miami 0-2, which has never lost its first three games of the season, faces unbeaten Western Michigan 2-0 at Kalamazoo.

The proud Redskins, who own more MAC titles six than any other school, haven't had a losing football campaign since 1942.

Kent State 1-1 visits Ohio University 0-2 in a skirmish that could determine the league's best threat to championship Bowling Green.

The Falcons 1-1, demolished at West Texas State Saturday, 34-0, hope to rebound against winless but stubborn Dayton.

Toledo 2-0, which hasn't opened a season with three straight triumphs in 25 years, bids to do just that against Marshall Saturday night on the West Virginian's field.

The Thundering Herd also is unbeaten in two starts and boasts the loop's flashiest half-back, Mickey Jackson, who has scored seven touchdowns.

Wittenberg, shooting for an unprecedented fifth straight Ohio Conference crown, plays host to traditionally tough Akron, still reeling from a 41-0 setback to San Diego.

Xavier, sporting a 2-0 mark, meets the rugged Quantico Marines in a Saturday night fray. The Musketeers boast two decisions over Mid-Am opponents.

Jones Named As Most Valuable IL Pitcher

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — At 39, the well-traveled Sam Jones has earned the award of most valuable pitcher in the International League.

The former major leaguer posted a 12-4 record as a relief pitcher in helping the Columbus Jets win the International League pennant.

Westgaters Record Third Shutout Win

Westgate rolled to its third straight victory with a 28-0 shutout at East Palestine Thursday.

In winning, Westgate's defensive forces chalked up their third shutout as no opponent has scored on the Wildcats in three contests.

Jim Musuraca hit paydirt twice in the third and fourth periods on runs of 70 and 20 yards to spark the Wildcat offense again.

Dan Cunningham opened the scoring in the first period with a 20 yard jaunt to the end zone as Floyd Cranston added the two-point conversion.

In the second quarter, Tom Chambers cashed in for six points on a 30-yard run. Chambers also helped set up other scores by grabbing passes from Cunningham.

Coach Joe Chontos was pleased with a good team effort both offensively and defensively.

Westgate will battle East next Thursday at Patterson Field.

Dodgers Take Step Closer To Flag; Drysdale Pitches 3-Hit Masterpiece

By MURRAY CHASS Associated Press Sports Writer
Getting stronger as the season grows shorter, the Los Angeles Dodgers' one-two punch of Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale has dropped the San Francisco Giants perilously close to the canvas for a 10-count.
In fact, the way the pair has been pitching, the Dodgers may not even need them to deliver the knockout blow.
That climactic punch conceivably could come tonight following Drysdale's three - hit, 4-0 victory over Milwaukee Thursday night.
The triumph, their 13th straight, kept the National League - leading Dodgers two games in front of the Giants, who defeated Cincinnati 5-3, and put the leaders in this position:
If the Dodgers, with Claude Osteen pitching, beat the Braves again tonight and the Reds and 21-game winner Sammy Ellis down the Giants, Los Angeles will have its third pennant in the last seven years.

Drysdale's masterpiece came just 24 hours after Koufax shut out Cincinnati on two hits marking the second time in the last six days that the prodigious pair has pitched consecutive shutouts.
Against St. Louis last Saturday and Sunday, Koufax pitched a five-hit, 2-0 victory and Drysdale hurled a five - hit, 1-0 triumph.
"This is the best stretch of pitching a team of mine has ever enjoyed," said Manager Walter Alston, who has watched his staff allow only two runs in the last 60 innings. "I've also never had a team that finished a season as strong as this one."
Drysdale, who threw an average of only 10 pitches an inning against the Braves, said he never felt stronger. He also suggested that trainers Wayne Anderson and Bill Buhler should receive much of the credit for the pitching streak.

"They're the best in baseball, and they've kept us in great shape," he explained.
The shape Koufax and Drysdale have been in has been phenomenal. Together they've recorded 48 of the Dodgers' 95 victories - Drysdale is 23-12 and Koufax 25-8.
The left-handed Koufax has a 2.06 earned run average and eight shutouts while the right-handed Drysdale has a 2.78 ERA and seven shutouts.
In the only other NL game St. Louis annihilated Houston 19-8 while Minnesota edged Baltimore 7-6 in the only American League contest.
Drysdale retired the first 14 Braves, then gave up a two-out single to Felipe Alou in the fifth inning. He rapped two singles himself, driving in the second run and raising his average to .302, best on the team.

The Giants won only their third game in the last nine when pinch hitter Orlando Cepeda, batting .161, clouted a 3-2 pitch from Joe Nuxhall for a two-run homer with one out in the ninth inning.
Frank Robinson had put Cincinnati ahead 3-2 with a homer in the eighth, but the Giants tied it in the bottom of the inning on a double by Jim Hart and Jesus Alou's single. Giants' starter Juan Marichal was forced out of the game in the seventh with a dislocated left thumb suffered in a baseline collision.
Zoilo Versalles powered the American League champion Twins with the first grand-slam homer of his career. Baltimore made it close with four unearned runs in the seventh inning after Jerry Kindall bobbled Jerry Adair's leadoff grounder.

Victory Will Push Kelso To $2 Million

NEW YORK (AP)—Victory in Saturday's $100,000-added Woodward Stakes at Aqueduct is a must for Kelso if the 8-year-old gelding is to hit the $2-million mark in total earnings without further delay. Second won't do.
It figures this way. Kelso has banked $1,977,396, just $22,604 short of the goal desired by his owner, Mrs. Richard C. duPont. With seven expected to start in the 1 1/4-mile race, the Woodward will be worth $110,600. The winner will get $71,890. Second will be worth only $22,120.
Kelso hasn't been exactly a ball of fire since making a belated start for his sixth straight Horse of the Year title. His 1965 record shows six starts with three wins, two thirds and earnings of $84,034. But in his last outing 10 days ago against mediocre opposition, he romped home an eight-length winner of the Stryke at Aqueduct.
Weight-for-age conditions favor Kelso, who won the Woodward three straight years starting in 1961 and then was edged by Gun Bow in one of the thrillers of 1964. He'll carry 126 pounds, including his usual jockey, Mike Valenzuela.
Four other older horses, Hill Rise, Pluck, Malicious and Roman Brother, also will carry 126 pounds. Two 3-year-olds, Royal Gunner and Terry's Secret, pick up 121 each.

The Zip Code Will Iron Kinks Out, Officials Say

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postal authorities are confident they can iron out some kinks that have taken a bit of zip out of the zip code.
There's nothing wrong with the five-number code itself, postal planners insist. But they concede they have found what they call "some small bugs" in the complex of 553 sectional centers organized to put the tie into the nationwide routing and distribution of mail.
Outgoing Postmaster General John A. Gronouski celebrated the establishment of the last of the elaborately plotted centers July 1 with the proud declaration that the center network provided the core of "the first all-new mail distribution and routing system since the advent of the railroads."
Gronouski, now preparing to take up the post of ambassador to Poland, also said the sectional establishment would assure the sending of all mail "by the most direct route possible to its destination."
But that's precisely where the bugs got into the act. It appears that in some places the appointed rounds of mail deliverers are more roundabout than the most direct routes envisioned by the planners.
Gronouski was not the first postmaster general to decry primary reliance on a distribution system which, despite increased use of airplanes and motor vehicles, was geared to mail trains.
As late as 1930 there were more than 10,000 trains carrying mail, about 27 billion pieces of it. Now more than 82 billion pieces of mail are moving each year, but there are only 1,100 mail trains.
Primary dependence on trains led naturally to the designation of postal gateways to which mail from a distance was routed them. For the code directs mail from one center to another for redistribution to its own satellites.

Queen Elizabeth Is Criticized For Reading Speech
LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II was criticized today for reading and not memorizing her public speeches.
Writing in the Liberal News, an independent publication of one section of Britain's Liberal party, Mrs. Ann Sheldon Williams said:
"The unveiling of the memorial plaque to Winston Churchill in commemoration of the Battle of Britain by the queen at Westminster Abbey came over the newsreels and TV as perfunctory and unimpressive because she read every one of the simple dozen or so words of dedication."
A Buckingham Palace spokesman commented:
"The queen has a very full day nearly every day. It would be rather difficult for her to learn her speeches - even the shorter ones. Most of her speeches are of a formal nature and this is why she reads them."

Browns Favored To Bounce Back

NEW YORK (AP) — Can Charley Johnson keep up the pace against that rugged Dallas defense? Can Cleveland bounce back from the Cardinal disaster? Will Baltimore have enough left to handle unbeaten San Francisco after those two tough games with Minnesota and Green Bay? How much will the loss of Elbert Dubenion hurt Buffalo?
Those are the questions that make it tough for a pro football picker this week. Thanks to the Cards and Packers, the old batting average picked up a bit last week. So far, it's 9-5 in the NFL and 4-3-1 in the AFL for a total of 13-8-1.
Let's try again. All games are Sunday unless otherwise indicated. There is a Monday night game at St. Louis.
NFL
Green Bay 24, Chicago 14—Packers hurting with Paul Hornung, Jim Taylor, Bart Starr and Boyd Dowler banged up in Colt game. Return of Larry Morris should help Bears. But this is Packers' opener in Green Bay after one "home" game in Milwaukee and Bears are old, old enemies. Packers won preseason game 31-14.
Cleveland 20, Philadelphia 14—Browns may still be shell shocked after Card game. Giants were able to run on Eagles so Jim Brown should get 100 yards again. Leaky Cleveland defense must find way to handle Tim Brown and Pete Terrafid. Lou Groza's foot could decide it. Frank Ryan doubtful with bruised arch.
Minnesota 21, Los Angeles 17—Vikings healthy and hungry after losing two Rams' Rosey Grier and Lamar Lundy sub par but still keyed high after exciting win over Bears with Terry Baker coming into own. Vikings' Fran Tarkenton due to scramble and ramble.
New York 14, Pittsburgh 9—Giants' running game best in years against Eagles and Earl Morrall on target for first time.
Baltimore 28, San Francisco 21—This could be real trouble for the Colts after those rough games with the Vikings and Packers. The 49ers are red hot after winning their first two to John Brodie the big rush. If John Unitas' sore right shoulder doesn't come around, watch out for an upset.
Detroit 17, Washington 14—Lions are big surprise of league, and Redskins haven't jelled.
St. Louis 24, Dallas 14, Monday night — Charley Johnson had nine TD passes in two games, but the Cowboys' defense will make him hurry.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

'Easy Life' Is A Fattening One

Many overweights, in an effort to find out why they are not losing, write a letter, giving their food pattern and a list of the food eaten daily. Invariably they ask what they are doing wrong and why they are not reducing. Usually the food pattern is fairly good. What then can be wrong?

Chances are the trouble is lack of exercise. Weight control is the balance between the amount of food consumed and the amount used. To lose, there must be a calorie deficit, so that nature can call on stored fat for part of the energy requirements. If you have cut down on food, but have cut down even more on exercise, you still are eating your full quota of calories.

DIETERS, if the pounds seem glued on, find ways to step up daily exercise. With some type of regular exercise you will look slimmer, feel better and burn more calories. This does not necessarily mean calisthenics, but routine activity. When you need something from the drug store, could you walk?

Today's dieter has been described as the one who drives a half mile to the drug store to get an appetite depressant. A la s, appetite depressants are not even in the right direction, for they do nothing to change your food habits or your everyday ways of living.

One doctor, when asked by a homemaker for an appetite depressant, answered "Use the one God gave you. Eat a little less food at each meal, and find ways to use up a little more food in exercise, and you'll have it made." The homemaker did exactly that. Six months later and 18 pounds lighter, she thanked the doctor.

How can you fit a little more healthful exercise into your routine? Get a move on! When you move about, that's exercise. Sit less, move more. Calisthenics help, for they tone and tighten the muscles and prevent flabbiness.

It's quite remarkable how well the tone of the muscles can be maintained with stretching exercises, taken daily. On awakening tomorrow morning, indulge in a big stretch. Start a stretch and nature carries on. Get the morning stretch habit. Follow through with six to ten minutes of easy stretch-bend-contraction action.

WALKING is wonderful exercise. Use of the big muscles of the body steps up calorie burning and is a general conditioner. If you could walk to work, exercise would be a natural. But distances are usually too great.

It takes fortitude, but could you start early enough to take a 15-minute walk before boarding the bus, or having your car pool driver pick you up en route? Some businessmen, on their doctor's advice, are now walking a quarter hour at lunch time. Regularity of exercise is important.

Odd, isn't it, we work hard to be able to buy the things that make life easier — and it's killing us!

Bringing Up A Family

By Dr. GARRY MYERS

Reading Can Be An Asset To Child

Can a child read too much? Hardly, if his eyes and general health are not impaired by it and if he finds adequate time for recreation. Of course, it's possible for a child to find reading an escape from usual responsibilities and from having to compete with other children at play. It's so unusual to find a child whose parents suppose he reads too much. In contrast, consider the thousands and thousands of children who rarely read for pleasure.

Even though the first grade girl about whom her mother writes in the following letter from Pennsylvania seems to find escape from experiences less desirable to her, many of my readers would give anything if their child were such an avid reader.

"Dear Dr. Myers:

"OUR CHILD doesn't want to play with children. She just wants to read constantly and has read since she was three. She's in first grade and teachers are amazed at her reading ability. She's a grade A student.

"I can't get her to learn to help herself at home, such as dressing and a few light chores to help herself. She has read a great deal from several encyclopaedias — about space, asteroids, stars, reading Geographic magazines and some children's books, but she doesn't like them as well.

"She was brought from the school library, science and astronomy books. She claims she's going to be an astronomer or cartoon artist.

"How can I help her to be a more friendly child towards other children? She just seems to be a loner. I even force her outdoors to the point of crying."

My reply in part:

Obviously, your daughter is a very bright child and a wonderful reader. However, for her later happiness and greatest usefulness in life, she will need to cultivate some friends of her own age.

IT COULD be that she finds that other children of her age are interested in so many things less interesting to her and more babylike; they seem quite inferior in achievement and ability to her.

It won't be easy for you to help her take a more friendly and humble attitude toward these other children. Endeavor to attract some other children of her age to your home where you can study and guide her in being a more attractive playmate. She needs to enjoy some skills and fun of these other children.

Consider a program by which she will be required to be outdoors with other children of her age on good days, for a reasonable period.

Your problem isn't easy, but I hope you work at it. Apparently she has not developed in self-reliance and responsibility.

I hope you don't do for her what she can do for herself and that you set a few regular chores — just a few — that she must do every day. Don't jaw about these, but set a penalty if she doesn't go at the chore and complete it promptly.

REQUIRE her to sit for thirty minutes, doing nothing, unamused, preferably where you can see her and she can't find amusement.

I hope you parents enjoy discussing the many things she reads and try to keep up with her in her search for knowledge.

Boy Killed In Plunge

Through Floor Of Car
AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A 2-year-old Stow boy who plunged through the makeshift floor of the family car while his mother was driving was killed Tuesday.

The boy, Robert Timms, apparently jumped from the rear seat of the car to the floor, went through a hole that had been covered by a piece of plywood and was run over, Summit County sheriff's deputies said.

The accident was in Sagamore Heights.

Junior Editors Quiz on LARYNX

QUESTION: Do animals have voice boxes like we do?

ANSWER: The higher animals do have a voice box, or larynx, to make sounds with. It is situated in the throat, as ours is, and is a kind of enlargement of the windpipe. Inside, the vocal chords are stretched across and vibrate when air is passed over them, creating sound. The cavities of throat and mouth enlarge the sound, like the hollow box of a violin's body enlarges the vibration of the violin strings. The big lion has a large voice box and amplifying area which makes for a deep sound, as the big bass fiddle makes a deep sound too. But the little cat, with its much smaller voice box and vocal chords, produces a higher-pitched sound, much as the small violin does.

Birds sing by using a special "song box" of their own called a syrinx, in which vibrating membranes take the place of vocal chords.

No matter how the voice boxes of the animals may resemble ours, there is a gigantic difference between what they can do with theirs and what we do with ours. For we can modify the sounds coming from our voice boxes, turning them into speech to convey every shade of meaning. That is only possible because of the amazing developments of the human brain.

FOR YOU TO DO: Remember you have a voice box which will give you more than just words—you can sing with it! You may not be an opera star, but sing just the same. It will make you feel happy.

Glynda Lee Smith of Ponca City, Okla., wins today's combined prize of Compton's Illustrated Science Dictionary plus $10 cash for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review.
